

Launch of CSTL Online Community Platform

FutureLife-Now Sharing Meeting

24 February 2021

Shéla McCullough

Communications & Materials Production Manager

MIET AFRICA

The importance of online communities has increased in value and popularity since COVID-19.

Now more than ever, people are recognising the benefits of a shared, online space to connect, exchange ideas, promote their work and share information.

Introducing CSTL Pulse

An online community platform which promotes engagement amongst CSTL stakeholders across the SADC region

BUILD ASK SHARE
RESOLVE learn
ASSIST INNOVATE
Communicate
TRANSFER
NETWORK
collaboration

OBTAIN ONBOARD

CSTL Pulse is more than a website. It is space which represents a unique opportunity where CSTL stakeholders - Ministries of Education and Health, schools and educators, development and NGO partners - can come together to share information, learnings, new initiatives and ideas which all meet our common goal.

Members are encouraged to own their own spaces on the platform; there will be pages for Member States, schools, partner organisations, and a section to share news and updates.

Discussions and topics can be posted to promote exchange.

There is a resource library containing key resources and materials related to CSTL and other key topics related to the care and support of learners in the SADC region.

The vision: a robust, engaging and exciting platform, relevant and useful to all CSTL stakeholders

We look forward to welcoming you to CSTL Pulse!